Prelude

Brent Johnson

Richard Hill: Theme for “Clayhanger”

In 1976, a British TV company broadcast one of the longest running literary dramatizations in history. Over 26 weeks, viewers followed the lives of two flawed characters, Edwin Clayhanger and Hilda Lessways, as they faced countless challenges in The Potteries. This area of central England produced 25% of the world’s ceramics, and its wealth fostered remarkable characters and political developments, all brilliantly captured in novels by Arnold Bennett. Each episode opened and closed with this grand composition by Richard Hill (b. 1942), whose musical interests centered upon brass ensembles – the original scoring for this theme.

Introit

Choir

Henry Purcell: Alleluia

The original purpose of this short anthem, simply setting “God’s praise,” is unknown. It may have been intended as the conclusion of a longer motet for solo voices (known as a ‘verse anthem’), or it may have been created as a ‘stand-alone’ piece, to serve as an introit, as we are treating it this morning. The composer was born in 1659 and died in 1695, and was a prodigy in both the theater and the church, where he most notably served as Organist of Westminster Abbey.

Praise God from whom all blessings flow,
Praise Him, all creatures here below,
Praise Him above, ye heavenly host,
Praise Father, Son and Holy Ghost. Amen.

Poem

Mawefemor Amuzu

Alice Meynell: In February

A sonnet by Meynell, born in 1827 in the felicitously named London suburb of Barnes, who was a prominent Catholic in London society. Her faith, therefore, stood in the way of a court appointment as Poet Laureate, though she was recognized as the superior candidate on at least two occasions. She died in 1922, leaving behind a large family of artists: two of her eight children became acclaimed poets in their own right.

Rich meanings of the prophet-Spring adorn,
Unseen, this colourless sky of folded showers,
And folded winds; no blossom in the bowers;
A poet's face asleep in this grey morn.
Now in the midst of the old world forlorn
A mystic child is set in these still hours.
I keep this time, even before the flowers,
Sacred to all the young and the unborn.

To all the miles and miles of unsprung wheat,
And to the Spring waiting beyond the portal,
    And to the future of my own young art,
And, among all these things, to you, my sweet,
My friend, to your calm face and the immortal
    Child tarrying all your life-time in your heart.

Charles Callahan: Meditation on THAXTED

Callahan was a popular recitalist who was born 1951 in Cambridge (MA) and studied at the Curtis Institute & the Catholic University of America in Washington, DC. He passed away in 2023. His prelude is based on a melody by Gustav Holst that took its name from the English village in which Holst lived and wrote his orchestral suite, The Planets.

Responsorial Psalm

Deena Borelli

Psalm 119:105–112

Leader: Your word is a lamp for my feet,

People: a light on my path.

Leader: I have taken an oath and confirmed it,

People: that I will follow your righteous laws.

Leader: I have suffered much;

People: preserve my life, Lord, according to your word.

Leader: Accept, Lord, the willing praise of my mouth,

People: and teach me your laws.

Leader: Though I constantly take my life in my hands,

People: I will not forget your law.

Leader: The wicked have set a snare for me,

People: but I have not strayed from your precepts.

Leader: Your statutes are my heritage forever;

People: they are the joy of my heart.

Leader: My heart is set on keeping your decrees

People: to the very end.

Anthem

Choir

Martin Phipps: Alleluia (from “Victoria”)

A recent British TV dramatization of the life of Queen Victoria reveals her to have been remarkably resilient in the face of challenges throughout her reign, but especially at its outset. Invited to score the opening title sequence, the British composer Martin Phipps (b. 1968) reflected that “the idea was to give Victoria a dynamic voice, an explosive theme through which we could rejoice in her strength & courage.” The only words sung by the choir are Alleluia, Gloria, and Gloriana, the last being a title given to English female monarchs from the time of Elizabeth I onwards.

Johnny Pearson: Theme for “All Creatures Great and Small”

The memoirs of a country veterinary surgeon, James Herriot, replete with charming anecdotes, are ideal for dramatization, and there have been two such serializations on British television. The first was made in 1978 and was introduced by this charming piano solo by Pearson (1925 – 2011), one of Britain’s leading pop arrangers.
